Official Publication of the Washington State Council of Firefighters WSCFF & provided to WSCFF Members

Published monthly by the

2018 IAFF/WSCFF Educational Seminar

The 2018 IAFF-WSCFF Jointly Sponsored Educational Seminar was held April 17-19. The Historic Davenport Hotel welcomed over 300 WSCFF members from 90 locals. The event provides practical training and allows members from all over Washington the opportunity to gain insight and support from each other and to socialize.

Members were quickly woken up by the first speaker, Eric Boles who is the President of "The Game Changers Inc," and a highly acclaimed keynote speaker, consultant and trainer. Many of the principles Eric taught were directly related to his experience playing in the NFL. He charismatically spoke about unleashing your best in life and at work. He challenged the room to lead with purpose. His effective style of speaking translated into an audience inspired with a renewed urgency to foster effective, visionary leadership.

Other topics included New Member
Engagement, the strategic partnership of the Wildland & Mobilization Committee, Behavioral
Health and Peer Support, Contract Negotiations,
Navigating PTSD, Talking Union in a Right- toWork State, and Public Relations.

Thank you to all who were able to attend.

Local 2510 Chehalis Awards Medal to Local 27 Seattle Firefighter Chris Quinlan

"From the bottom of my heart, I did not expect this," he said. "I just did something that I believe thousands of men and women in fire service would have done. I was just given the opportunity to be in the right place at the right time." Chris Quinlan, Local 27 Seattle.

Two and a half months after he pulled a man from a burning pickup truck in Chehalis, Seattle firefighter Chris Quinlan received the Medal of Valor Monday from the Chehalis Fire Department.

In February, Quinlan was en route from his home in Mossyrock to his shift in Seattle when he came across a crash on I-5. He stopped and pulled a Centralia man from a truck that was engulfed in flames. He provided medical assistance until the man was taken away by paramedics and provided information to 911 dispatchers that helped coordinate the response to the multi-vehicle incident.

"It takes an exceptional individual to stop when so many people would drive by," said Chehalis Mayor Dennis Dawes. "We appreciate you more than you know."

Quinlan, with a large family contingent on hand for the ceremony, deflected the praise.

Seattle Fire Chief Harold Scroggins surprised Quinlan by showing up to the meeting. Hearing about the off-duty heroics of his firefighter, he said, validates the work of his department.

"We get stories back like this from time to time, and we're so proud of the good work and sharing the blessings of the training," Scroggins said. "It's a big deal to us."

Chehalis Fire Chief Ken Cardinale said his department was also heartened to hear Quinlan's story, saying it reflects the values of everyone in the profession.

"A lot of guys can drive by, but for us in the fire service, we just can't do that," he said. "You demonstrated that."

Washington State Council of Fire Fighters

April 24, 2018

WSCFF Local Leaders:

President Chuck Woolley and Vice President James Booth of Tukwila Professional Fire Fighters Local 2088 recently sent a letter to the WSCFF Board asking for our support to stand in opposition of the 2018 Scott Fire Fighter Combat Challenge which is to take place in Tukwila, Washington, in August.

The members of Local 2088 have adopted a motion describing their concerns that the City of Tukwila will be capitalizing on the good name and reputation of their fire fighters without demonstrating via actions that they value their fire fighters.

The members of Local 2088 have concerns regarding safe staffing levels and the lack of improvements to service levels for citizens despite financial growth and the addition of many new buildings and businesses in the city. At no time has the City of Tukwila planned, or made any efforts, to increase daily minimum staffing to address the rising population and increased run volume.

Your WSCFF Executive Board voted unanimously to support our brothers and sisters in Local 2088 and oppose the August 2018 Scott Fire Fighter Combat Challenge if held in the City of Tukwila. We are asking you for your support and encourage your members to not participate in the event.

If the Scott Fire Fighter Combat Challenge moves their location, we will notify all locals as soon as possible.

In Solidarity,

Dennis J. Lawson WSCFF President

Camp Blaze

July 25-August 5, 2018
Fire Training Academy
North Bend, WA

While Camp Blaze is offered in the fire service setting, the intent of Camp Blaze is not to recruit firefighters (though we secretly hope every camper falls in love with our profession)! It is our mission to EMPOWER, INSPIRE, and SUPPORT STRONG WOMEN LEADERS. There is no greater reward for us than to see Camp Blaze campers return to their community and make the world a better place. Our track record is strong and we invite you to join our Camp Blaze family.

Throughout the week, campers are sure to face one challenge or another. These challenges are meant to help foster personal growth in safe and supportive surroundings. The friendships that develop quickly through these experiences often become friendships of a lifetime. This year Camp Blaze will be introducing two awards in memory of past contributors to the organization. Camp Blaze Legacy awards will recognize current members who embody the legacy of those who were an integral part of the Camp Blaze culture.

Starting with the basics, the training provided over the course of the week is designed to allow campers to work safely as a team in the firefighting environment. A carefully crafted curriculum introduces them to the equipment that will allow them to fight fire at the end of the week. Experienced staff is always close at hand during these exercises and ready to encourage campers when necessary.

The "Camp Blaze Legacy Award -"Crystal Murphy" is awarded in memory of Crystal Murphy, a firefighter with Lacey Fire District #3, and a long-time volunteer with Camp Blaze.

Crystal was a tireless advocate for at-risk youth, and sought to always extend her hand to those less fortunate. She volunteered at various girls camps throughout the western United States, and used her experiences to become a co-founder of the Capital Metro Fire Girls Camps held in Olympia, Washington.

Awarded each year to one camper, the Crystal Murphy Award recipient is a young woman who exemplifies leadership qualities, not only within her own crew, but also among all the campers.

The Camp Blaze Legacy Award -"Alison Greene" is awarded in memory of Alison Green, a firefighter with the San Francisco Fire Department, working as a firefighter, driver, and Chief's aide. Embracing the fullness of life, Alison balanced her life between her son, her partner, her friends and family, while serving as a leader, a teacher, and a creative inspirer. Alison encouraged those around her to push their limits with ideas. Alison's enthusiasm for life and working with youth collided both in Camp Blaze and in her community.

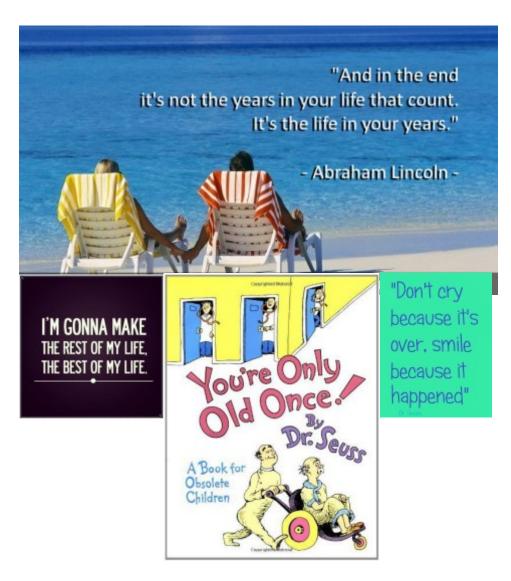

Awarded each year to a member of Camp Blaze, the Alison Greene Award recipient is a Camp Blaze member who exemplifies enthusiasm, friendship, community, and teambuilding across the Camp Blaze community.
